Media Advisory: Curiosity Shop comes to Brock University

Finally, a place where Ontarians can satisfy their many curiosities!

ST CATHARINES, Ontario
May 28 to 30, 2014
10:00 a.m. – 7:00 p.m. Wed/Thu
9:00 – 2:00 p.m. Fri
Ian D. Beddis gym / Walker Complex
Brock University campus

The Curiosity Shop: answering your burning questions!

Ever wonder...
- Is freedom an illusion?
- Why do we get butterflies in our stomach?
- How do people remember near death experiences?

How it works:
A travelling booth called “The Curiosity Shop” has come to Brock. Visitors’ questions are recorded at a travelling booth called The Curiosity Shop. Questions are distributed to researchers in Ontario universities. Selected questions – and answers – are posted online.

http://yourontarioresearch.ca/curiosity-shop/

This week at Brock, scholars and researchers at Congress 2014, Canada’s largest gathering of academics in the humanities and social sciences, are gearing up to give answers.

It’s a great media story! Bring your cameras or recorders, and come find out:
- what’s on peoples’ minds and how research makes a big difference in everyday life
- the difference university research makes in real life
- how universities, researchers and research are becoming more accessible to the public
- what real people in real communities are concerned about

Media inquiries, or to set up an interview:
Cathy Majtenyi
Research Communications/Media Relations Specialist
Brock University | Office of Research Services
C: 905 321 0566
cmajtenyi@brocku.ca

Nicola Katz
Manager of Communications / Gestionnaire des communications
Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences / Fédération des sciences humaines
C: 613-282-3489
nkatz@ideas-idees.ca