Ongoing Events 24-30 May

The Source: Rethinking Water through Contemporary Art – Rodman Hall Art Centre

In this exhibition, artists from a multitude of cultural backgrounds working in a diversity of media consider changing concepts of water and associated cultural, political and aesthetic implications. The exhibition and associated symposium will build critical context around issues of water and will involve a broad cross-section of the community in Niagara.

Sponsored by the Rodman Hall Art Centre, Brock University

Augmented Reality – The Isaac Brock Circle (traffic circle)

Conceived by Professor John Bonnett, this project presents a display of computer-generated visual and musical art derived from multiple data sources including DNA and text. The disparate works will be expressed in Augmented Reality and viewed via an app and computer tablet. App download information to follow.

Sponsored by Brock University

Plaything – Congress Centre

The Plaything Series by Shawn Serfas examines traditions of landscape painting and visual histories of abstraction. The project specifically looks at the geomorphology, environmental health and aesthetics of the Niagara Region.

Sponsored by the Marilyn I. Walker School of Fine and Performing Arts, Department of Visual Arts, Brock University

Inspiring Images: Landscapes, Objects, People – Sean O’Sullivan Theatre Lobby

Adjudicated photo exhibit on the ancient Mediterranean world. Photographs by students and faculty from the Department of Classics showcase international student learning through study tour and archaeological practica as well as faculty research activities. The photos celebrate some of our moments of inspiration during investigations of the ancient world on site in the Mediterranean.

Sponsored by the Department of Classics, Brock University, and Niagara AIA

A Loft – Scotiabank Hall

Eleven undergraduate Visual Arts students collaborated with the artist Althea Thauberger to create this film project of the Marilyn I. Walker Cultural Leader series 2013/2014. The ideas of home, growth, and displacement are brought up through the Chimney Swift, an endangered bird that takes refuge in industrial chimneys.

Sponsored by the Marilyn I. Walker School of Fine and Performing Arts, Department of Visual Arts, Brock University

and all watched over by machines of loving grace – Centre for the Arts Box Office

Two video monitors display human eyes that lock onto viewers and track them as they move. Initially, it's almost comic, but gradually the installation reveals itself as an unsettling comment on the ubiquitous nature of contemporary labyrinth of surveillance technology. It's a digitally driven stare, implacably observant and eerily blank. Created by Althea Thauberger, Donna Szoke and Ricarda McDonald.

Sponsored by the Marilyn I. Walker School of Fine and Performing Arts, Department of Visual Arts, Brock University

On the Move, In the World: Mobility and Young People
